

Canadian Fuels Association Driver Certification Program

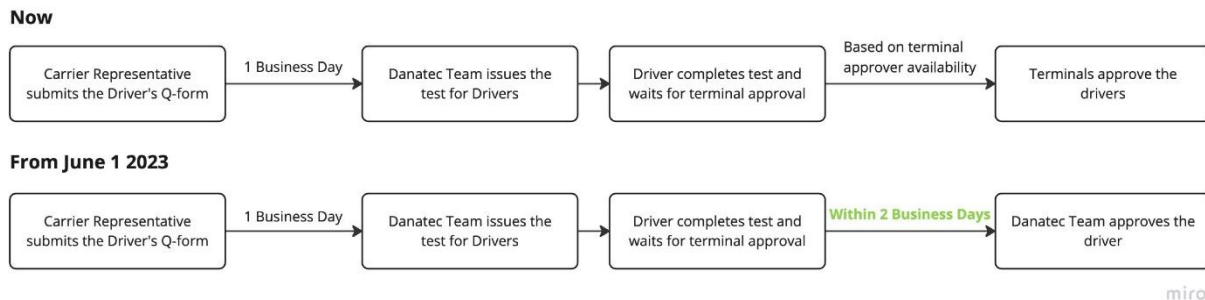

May 5, 2023

Carrier Partners;

We are pleased to announce changes to enhance your experience with our certification process. These changes will serve to improve your interactions with us.

Revised Process

Effective June 1, an enhanced attestation form (detailed below) will be included with the Q-form when carriers submit a driver certification application. In return, Danatec - instead of the fuel terminal - will perform final approval after carriers have provided all required information confirming that the driver has successfully completed all requirements. This change will improve efficiency and deliver a better experience for our carriers and drivers.

Revised Attestation

We have updated our declaration/attestation to comply with regulations and ensure that the information submitted aligns with policies and requirements.

I represent the employer named herewith in endorsing this application for a driver's exam under the Canadian Fuels Association (CFA) Driver Certification Program.

By submitting this application (Driver Qualification Form), I attest to the following:

- All of the information provided to CFA and Danatec (Program administrator) in this application has been vetted for accuracy and currency.
- I understand that CFA or Danatec may request additional verification at any time for information provided to support this application.
- The Driver who is the subject of this application has been provided access to CFA's Professional Petroleum Driver's Manual, and CFA's Land Transportation Emergency Response Guidelines (LTER) document. These materials are available in English and French under 'Driver Certification Guidance Material' at <https://www.canadianfuels.ca/health-safety/driver-certification/>.
- I understand that the Driver Certification Program helps to ensure the safe handling of fuels during loading, truck transport, and unloading operations at terminals, in transit, and at customers and retail sites. Only drivers who have successfully completed all requirements of the Program are granted access to CFA member terminal loading facilities.
- Failure to adhere to CFA's Driver Certification Program Guidelines, the CFA Professional Petroleum Driver's manual, or CFA member company terminal operating procedures or guidelines may result in denial or cancellation of Program certification for the applicant.
